Description:

If a child can watch Barney, can't that same child also enjoy watching Charlie Chaplin or the Marx Brothers? And as they get older, wouldn't they grow to like screwball comedies (His Girl Friday), women's weepies (Imitation of Life), and westerns (The Searchers)? The answer is that they'll follow because they'll have learned that "old" does not necessarily mean "next channel, please." Here is an impassioned and eminently readable guide that introduces the delights of the golden age of movies. Ty Burr has come up with a winning prescription for children brought up on Hollywood junk food. FOR THE LITTLE ONES (Ages 3—6): Fast-paced movies that are simple without being unsophisticated, plainspoken without being dumbed down. Singin' in the Rain and Bringing Up Baby are perfect. FOR THE ONES IN BETWEEN (Ages 7—12): "Killer stories," placing easily grasped characters in situations that start simply and then throw curveballs. The African Queen and Some Like It Hot do the job well. FOR THE OLDER ONES (Ages 13+): Burr recommends relating old movies to teens' contemporary favorites: without Hitchcock, there could be no The Texas Chainsaw Massacre, without Brando, no Johnny Depp.

I can't recommend this book highly enough. It would be easy to imagine a book like this starting with some thoughtful consideration about family viewing before descending into a dutiful but dull cataloging of 100s of movies. But Burr's passion for film and insight into kids and families leaps off of every page. It's a real joy to read and sometimes gets me laughing out loud. The book is squarely focused on Old Hollywood - the era from the dawn of talkies into the early 60s, though it includes some entries on silents and foreign films as well. We prefer a wider-ranging approach in our household and often include foreign films and more recent productions in our movie night lineup. But the book is no less valuable to us - Burr's insights into children and cinema are universal.
